

A plane crashes over the Amazon rain forest, leaving newspaper reporter Jane Dixon, crew members Cathy and John, and engineer, Wilhelm Brunt, stranded. In their search for help, they meet an Indian tribe, who befriend them. Finally, they reach the Amazon River, where they encounter Hans van Lunsen, an animal trader. Their attempt to escape, following the discovery of van Lunsen's secret, leads to some action-packed adventures and an unexpected ending.

Prisoners of the Amazon

Chapter 1

The large aeroplane on the runway, ready for its first flight. The route planned was from Miami, Florida to Buenos Aires, the capital of Argentina, a distance of 7.102 kilometers. Several representatives from the travel industry and many newspaper reporters had been invited to celebrate the plane's first flight. Chief flight attendant, 25-years-old Cathy Jones, and a small crew were there to greet them, dressed in elegant red uniforms. As the plane was practically empty, the passengers were allowed to sit where they wanted. Twenty-three-year-old Jane Dixon a newspaper reporter, decided to sit alone away from everyone else. The slim, blonde young woman was a little nervous. This was the first time the Look he pointed to a flashing red light on the control panel. It looks like there is malfunction in the fuel system.

Just then they heard an alarm and seconds later the plane began to vibrate violently.

Get back to the passengers, John ordered Cathy. Make sure they are secured in their seats.

What is happening? Asked Cathy, nervously, moving her dark hair from her eyes.

One of the engines has stopped working, John replied.

We have got to try and restart it.

That won't help John Michael called out. All the engines have stopped working. He immediately asked for help over the radio. May Day. May day, we have got an emergency he informed the air traffic controller of the plane's position and then suddenly everything was quiet as the plane lost all power.

Soon there was a fall in pressure. In the cabin, passengers began to panic as it became more and more difficult to breathe. Oxygen masks dropped down from their compartments.

Please sit down and secure your seatbelts. Prepare for an emergency landing. Cathy said above the screams of the passengers. Please sit down.

One of the reporters demanded to know exactly what was happening. Are we going to die? He cried.

The captain is doing the best he can Cathy explained to him. Then she called out to the other passengers. I repeat, will everyone please sit down prepare for an emergency landing el avión grande se quedó en la pista, listo para su primer vuelo. La ruta prevista era de Miami,

(adsbygoogle = window.adsbygoogle || []).push({}); PRESOS DE LA AMAZONÍA

Florida, para Buenos Aires, capital de Argentina, una distancia de 7.102 kilometros. se había invitado a varios representantes de la industria de los viajes y muchos periodistas para celebrar los plane's primer vuelo. Jefe azafata 25 años de edad, Cathy Jones, y una pequeña tripulación estaban allí para darles la bienvenida, vestidos con uniformes rojos elegantes. Cuando el avión estaba prácticamente vacío, a los pasajeros se les permitió sentarse donde querían. Veintitrés años de edad, Jane Dixon, un reportero de un periódico, decidió sentarse solo, lejos de todos los demás. El delgado, joven rubia estaba un poco

John, " dijo, que Brunt es un personaje horrible, " Olvídate de él. ¡Tenemos problemas más serios aquí, " dijo John. ¡Mira! " Se refirió a una luz roja intermitente en el panel de control. Parece que hay un mal funcionamiento en el system." combustible Justo en ese momento oyeron una alarma y segundos después el avión comenzó a vibrar violentamente. Volver a los pasajeros John ordenó Cathy. Asegúrese -son asegurados en sus asientos! " Cómo sucede? " preguntó Cathy, nerviosamente, moviendo su pelo oscuro de sus ojos. Uno de los motores ha dejado de funcionar John respondió. Nos'he dieron a probar y Resart It. Que El postulante no ayuda, John Michael llamó todos los motores han dejado de funcionar. Él inmediatamente pidió ayuda por radio. Mayday, mayday, mayday, ¡tenemos una emergencia! " Informó al controlador de tránsito aéreo de la posición plane's y de repente todo estaba en silencio, mientras el avión perdió todo poder. Al poco tiempo, se produjo una caída en la presión. En la cabina, los pasajeros comenzaron a entrar en pánico ya que se hizo más y más difícil respirar. Las máscaras de oxígeno cayeron por debajo de sus compartimentos. Por favor, siéntese y asegurar

The highly successful Burlington Reader Series, containing 130 titles, is specially designed for ESO and Bachillerato students. It offers a wide variety of accessible adaptations and original stories that reflect the interests of students in these age groups.

The Burlington Reader Series offers many exciting features:

Grammatical structures and vocabulary are carefully controlled, ensuring each reader corresponds perfectly to the levels and needs of the Spanish school system.

Difficult words appear in bold within the text and a contextual translation appears at the back of each book in four of the official languages of Spain. The introduction to each reader is also written in the four languages. Comprehension questions and activities are designed not only to consolidate the students' comprehension, but also to develop their ability to use textual and visual information.

Audio CD recordings of all titles are available for teachers. These reinforce reading, listening and pronunciation skills while offering a stimulating and enjoyable way of presenting each story in the classroom.

The Teacher's Resource Pack offers guidelines on how best to use the Burlington Reader Series. Also available upon request are booklets containing a plot summary for each book, background information, a set of worksheets, a final test, and a complete answer key to the comprehension questions, worksheets and final test.